THE DEMISE OF THE HAMILTONIANS NOVEMBER 2, 1990

THE DEMISE OF THE HAMILTONIANS

The score was tied
And a touchdown was a must,
When Melrose's offense
Decided to bust!!!

The blue clad defense
Had stolen the ball,
And pushed Melrose's offense
Against a great wall.

Overtime! Overtime!
The crowd began to shout,
And soon the Golden Wildcats'
Spirit had come about.

It was Melrose's ball
At yard number ten
And wow!! See those Golden Wildcats
Rush on in.

And everyone could see
That every minute would count.
No! Seconds!
To see the Golden Wildcats through the inzone mount.

Touchdown!! Touchdown!!
The crowd gave the shout,
For they knew like all knew
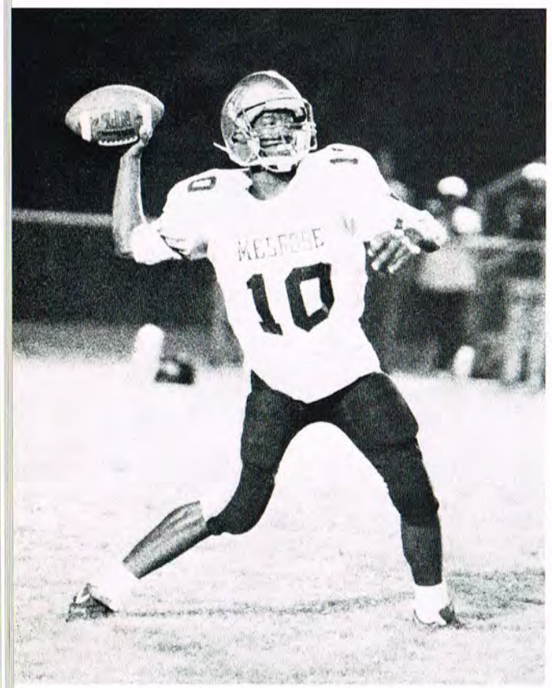
Hamilton's luck had run out.

This was a great celebration
That had just begun
And it all happened
In the CLASS OF '91!!!

SELETHA HANNAH '91

Let's Get it Together!



Quarterback Jerry Young threw 5 touchdowns for 296 yards.

Offense staged a sensational comeback!

Melrose top players find home is all over the field

By Thomas Harding
The Commercial Appeal Prep Editor

There's a new head football coach, Lacey Smith, at Melrose High, but one thing hasn't changed.

If the ball's in play, Gerald Nickelberry and Jerome Woods are on the field.

"The field is like a home — I don't want to ever come off," Woods said.

If the football field is like a home, Nickelberry, a 217-pound fullback and linebacker, and Woods, a 185-pound offensive end and safety, are the men of the house. They are two of the reasons the Golden Wildcats went 10-3 and made the state Class AAA quarterfinals last year. They would like to bring home a state title this year as seniors.

PREPS ON TOUR

Although they are two-way players, Nickelberry and Woods made a name for themselves last year on a defense that held opponents to a National Federation of State High School Associations-record 18.1-yard average during the 10-game regular season.

"It would be hard for a defense to do something like that again," Nickelberry said. "It's something I'm going to tell my grandkids."

Smith, who helped former coach Jimmy Williams last season, said Nickelberry and Woods are the kind of players anyone would keep on the field.

"I'll be surprised if they don't end up in the major league," said Smith, referring to the National Football League. "They're leaders. They could have come in here and been prima donnas, but they didn't. When you want something done, they jump to it."

Nickelberry said a Melrose player can't afford to be haughty in District 15-AAA.

Even though Melrose went the farthest of any Shelby Metro Class AAA team last year, Hamilton won the district last year — as it did the year before.

Melrose had to pull out tough victories over Whitehaven and Craigmont just to make the playoffs. Nickelberry said Raleigh-Egypt, which went winless last season, could be a surprise team.

"People love to beat Melrose," said Nickelberry, who had six sacks and two tackles behind the line of scrimmage last year. "I kind of like it.

"I like to walk around wearing my Melrose jacket. I like the recognition. Of course, when we lose, I don't want to come out of the house."

Nickelberry also intercepted two passes and on offense rushed for 707 yards and five touchdowns.

Woods, who led Melrose in interceptions with five and receptions with 15, agreed that the Wildcats bring out strong feelings.

"Everybody knows who you are and they're wanting to get you," Woods said.

Woods is wanting to get something else — an 18 on the American College Test, the only thing besides an injury that could hold him back from being eligible for major-college football next season.

Nickelberry, who already has scored high enough on the ACT to be eligible next season, spends most of his time on the field with Woods at his side.

Nickelberry said they're going to spend some time together — off the field — so Woods will be on a college field next year.

"Don't worry," Nickelberry said, looking at his partner. "We're going to get that score."

District 15-AAA at a glance

How the coaches see it

1. Melrose (10-3)
2. Hamilton (9-2)
3. (tie) Northside (5-5)
3. (tie) Whitehaven (5-4)
5. Craigmont (2-7)
6. Raleigh-Egypt (0-10)
7. South Side (1-8)

"HISTORY OF MELROSE"

Melrose has an illustrious history. Young men and women of noble character, undaunted and gifted intellectual ability have passed through her hallowed halls.

Melrose's history started when District 18 School of Shelby County, Tennessee was established in 1890, at the location now known as Spottswood and Boston. Later the school's name was changed to Melrose, in honor of Dr. Melrose, a philanthropist and humanitarian who gave much of his service to school, civic and community activities. Mrs. Fannie M. Kneeland was appointed principal and teacher.

Melrose grew from a one teacher-principal school to a three teacher school with Mr. J. A. Foster, principal, Miss Mary Fortson and Mrs. Mary Bradford teachers. In 1894, the school graduated its first class, composed of five girls. From 1894 to 1918, Mrs. Mary Bradford, Mrs. Jennie Graham and Mr. Fleming each served periods as principal.

In 1918, Melrose became a city school and an eleven classroom stucco building was built. Mr. J. T. Franklin was appointed principal. He was followed in this term of office by Mr. W. A. Lynk.

In 1938, Melrose and Park Avenue Schools were merged and R. H. Neville became principal. From 1941 to 1948, Mr. J. D. Springer and Mr. Harry T. Cash served as principals.

In May of 1946, Melrose High School graduated its first class. Many improvements have been made. The enrollment grew by "leaps and bounds," and the physical plant was improved to meet the increasing demands. The physical plant consisted of 79 classrooms, a well-equipped library, two domestic science laboratories, one applied science laboratory, two sound-proof music rooms, a shop building, a combination cafeteria and auditorium, an 11.65 acre campus area, and the pride of the community, a $217,000 stadium.

Mr. Floyd M. Campbell was appointed principal of Melrose High School in September, 1949. He emphasized the "family" idea. A close relationship developed between teachers and students. The pupils grew rapidly in the development of character, scholarship, leadership and service. Teachers were inspired to improve themselves professionally, and many were promoted to positions of leadership in the school system — principals, supervisors, and assistant superintendents. One became the president of West Tennessee Education Association, another, president of Tennessee Education Association.

Melrose's students have excelled in every walk of life, bringing honor and prestige to their alma mater. She can exclaim with pride and humility, her sons and daughters "will keep Her memory aflame."

In 1969, Mr. Melvin Conley took the helm of Melrose High School. The people of the community referred to his appointment as the "return of the native son," because he had formerly served as a biology teacher and coach at Melrose High School. He served with great pride and humility from 1969 until his retirement in September, 1979.

September, 1979, was the epoch of a new dawn in administration. A team of goal oriented administrators with Mr. LaVaughn Bridges as the leader, guided the "Melrose family." With new ideas, a competitive spirit and the determination to pursue excellence in all endeavors, Mr. Bridges forges ahead the AAA+1 faculty, students and staff. With a competent principal, two patient, but positive assistant principals, an excellent supportive staff and a corps of efficient teachers, success is inevitable.

As we mold the lives of young men and women, we are helping to build the characters of followers today and leaders tomorrow, who will serve with pride and humility.

MELROSE ALMA MATER

("Finlandia")

(In Tune Of: Hymn — Be Still My Soul)

Dear Melrose High, We love and cherish thee
For e'er and e'er you'll hold our loyalty
Oh, Melrose Dear, Your banners high are waving
A symbol of our faith in thee,
Oh, Melrose Dear, re-echo all your fame
Your sons will keep your mem'ry a-flame.

Melrose will always linger in our hearts,
It grieves us so from you we have to part;
Although we're far away in distant lands,
We pray to God to help you understand,
Be brave, be true, in everything you do;
Melrose, Melrose, we'll always love you.

MELROSE HIGH SCHOOL

PHILOSOPHY

The Melrose Comprehensive High School community reflects a rich educational heritage. The school is a spirit-filled educational community, dedicated in its pursuit of excellence in academics, vocational education and athletics. It is an educational environment in which students are able to pursue their academic and vocational goals.

We believe in expanding the educational experiences of our students to meet the demands of an increasingly technological and cybernetic society.

We believe in creating an educational environ conducive for learning, developing self-discipline, self-expression and human tolerance.

We believe that we must make it possible for all students, regardless of racial or ethnic origin, psychological or physical limitations, to reach their potential by providing a broad spectrum of academic, vocational, aesthetic, instructional resources, and athletic experiences. We endeavor to prepare them for life so that they can become self-supporting, economically responsible citizens.

We believe that education is preparation for life.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTIVES

1. To provide meaningful educational activities and experience which will activate students to acquire the ability and skills that will prepare them to be self-supporting, economically independent citizens and will raise them to their highest level of possibility.
2. To provide experiences that will help students develop the ability to think critically and analytically and to use objective, rational methods in decision making.
3. To provide experiences that will help students develop an understanding and appreciation of the world in which we live and a desire to keep it habitable.
4. To provide experiences that will help students develop an understanding and an appreciation of the many races and peoples of the world, their culture, differences and ways of life.

ACHIEVEMENT RECOGNITION

Melrose Golden Wildcats strive toward excellence in 1990-91, serving their Alma Mater "with pride and humility." Continuing a historic tradition, the Wildcats demonstrated achievement in academics, citizenship, attendance, punctuality, and extracurricular activities. Achievement was recognized during Honors Assemblies and with ribbons, certificates, buttons, and plaques. Campus Leaders demonstrated outstanding involvement in campus organizations and activities. They were selected by the Melrose faculty for the leadership they demonstrated among their peers.

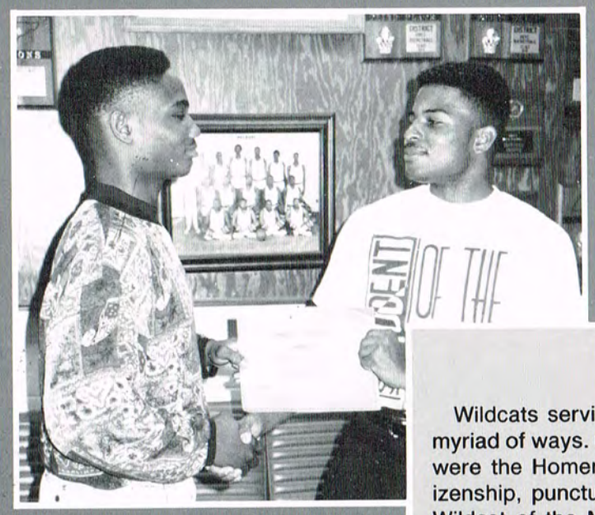
Honors Assemblies

Pride and enthusiasm marked the Honors Assemblies each six weeks. Honor Roll students and achievers in attendance received ribbons. Our adopters, Kellogg's and Rice College presented special awards and gifts. Speakers such as J. B. Peyton and Judge Earnestine Hunt, Melrose graduate, inspired students to strive toward greater achievements and excellence.



Wildcats serving "with pride and humility" were recognized in a myriad of ways. Quite visible with their Student of the Month buttons were the Homeroom Students of the Month, chosen for good citizenship, punctuality, and good attendance. From these a Golden Wildcat of the Month was selected. Classroom teachers awarded certificates each six weeks for academic achievement and excellence in attendance and participation. Tony the Tiger gave us the news about Campus Leaders, sponsored by Kellogg's, in a Melrose-produced video. Proud parents of semester honor roll students sported bumper stickers proclaiming "My Child Is an Honor Student at Melrose High!" School year 1990-91 — what a "bumper" year for achievement recognition!

"Consecutive Black Miss Americas"

MISS DEBBYE TURNER — 1990
MISS MARJORIE J. VINCENT — 1991

It was not long ago that VANESSA WILLIAMS made history by becoming the first Black woman to hold the renowned title of MISS AMERICA in 1982. Her incomplete reign was assumed by yet another Black, SUZETTE CHARLES. Who would have ever imagined that only a few years later, in 1991, history would once again be made when MARJORIE J. VINCENT became the first black MISS AMERICA to be crowned by a reigning Black woman, her predecessor, DEBBYE TURNER, MISS AMERICA, 1990.

OUR MISS AMERICAS

1990

DEBBYE TURNER, Miss America 1990, is an aspiring veterinarian. The talented marimba player mesmerized the audience when she performed "Flight of the Bumblebee." The young Miss Turner is very close to her family and holds them in the highest esteem. She has been featured in various magazines and has made appearances on several television shows. Once, on television, she recalled a playmate who had taunted her as a child. Upon winning the prestigious title of Miss America, she politely asked, "Well, HOW YOU LIKE ME NOW?"

1991

MARJORIE J. VINCENT, 26 years old, is from Oak Park, Illinois. The accomplished pianist speaks both French and Spanish fluently. She is currently a third year law student at Duke University, and hopes to practice corporate law upon graduation. It is her goal, as Miss America, to increase public awareness of domestic violence, and to find ways to help the life-threatening issue. She feels that "without an education, there's not much you can accomplish."

U.S. jets launch war against Iraq

Heavy hit envisions quick end to battle

By Michael R. Gordon
The New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON — The military campaign to evict Iraq from Kuwait began, as expected, with air strikes on a huge scale at targets deep in Iraq and Kuwait.

American officials said the onslaught included Tomahawk sea-launched cruise missiles, F117 Stealth fighter-bombers, F15E fighter-bombers and a wide variety of other Air Force and Navy planes.

The aim of the attack was to damage Iraqi command and control centers, knock out Iraqi air defenses, and destroy Scud surface-to-surface missiles and airfields thoughout Iraq.

President Bush hopes the heavy hit will sting President Saddam Hussein into reconsidering his adamant refusal to relinquish his seizure of Kuwait. If Hussein can hold out against the massive firepower arrayed against him for even a few days, he could establish himself as a leader of the Arab world even if the price is a fearful mauling for his people and his country, according to U.S. officials.

Hussein transformed into popular hero among the Arab masses could become a long-term nightmare for Washington and its Arab allies even if they ultimately prevail on the battlefield. Indeed, some administration officials believe that something close to that is Hussein's current strategy: to ride out the initial attack, proving his courage and showing the Arab world and others that he cannot be intimidated. Afterward, he could offer to negotiate peace terms and become the dominant Arab leader.

U.S. officials hope a quick, overwhelming attack will prevent that.

In mounting the air attack, the United States is also trying to make good on its assurances to the Israelis that Washington would blast the Scud missiles that threaten Israel to make it unnecessary for Israel to enter the war, U.S. officials said.

'We won't fail,' Bush says; allie hammer missil sites, air bases

From Our Press Services

The United States and its allies launched massive air att Wednesday night to drive Iraq from Kuwait, which it se Aug. 2, and to destroy Saddam Hussein's military might.

In a televised speech as hundreds of warplanes from the led force struck Iraq and Kuwait, Bush said the war was sta after all other options to resolve the crisis had been exhaus "We will not fail," Bush said and expressed hope "this figh will not go on for long, and that casualties will be held to an ab solute minimum."

Bush said the attacks also are intended to destroy Iraq's nuclear weapons potential and chemical weapons stocks, as well as damaging Hussein's tank force.

The beginning of the war, though not unexpected after all diplomatic efforts failed to force Iraq from Kuwait, nevertheless stunned the nation and the world, partly because it began less than 19 hours after the expiration of a UN ultimatum for Hussein to leave Kuwait. The attacks brought to a violent head a crisis that began with Iraq's swift invasion of Kuwait; Hussein had defied repeated UN demands and constant warnings from Bush to pull his forces out.

Led by F15 fighter-bombers based in Saudi Arabia, the massive air offensive began dropping bombs about 6 p.m. CST (3 a.m. Baghdad time). Wave after wave of warplanes attacked Baghdad, hitting oil refineries, the international airport and possibly Hussein's palace.

Reports in Washington indicated that the U.S. and allied planes took out Iraqi air bases and missile sites and inflicted heavy damage on the Iraqi Republic Guard forces in one of the heaviest air attacks in history.

Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Iraqi command and control centers were prime targets of the first wave and that "we have not targeted Mr. Saddam Hussein" in the saturation bombings.

The first targets hit, according to U.S. military sources in Saudi Arabia, were ground-to-ground Scud missiles capable of striking Saudi or Israeli cities. "Our planes went in. The bombs went down. There has been no reaction from the Iraqi side," said a

U.S. girds for war with Iraq as deadline for pullout nears

Ronnie Green kneels in prayer at St. Michael Catholic Church during a service for peace Monday. Green, who is a member of the Memphis church on Summer Avenue, was among about 200 who attended the midday service. President Bush held out little hope Monday for a diplomatic solution to the Persian Gulf crisis as today's 11 p.m. CST deadline for Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait approaches.

GULF DEADLINE IS TONIGHT

UN Security Council resolutions give Iraq until midnight tonight (11 p.m. CST, 8 a.m. Wednesday in Kuwait and Iraq) to withdraw from Kuwait or face possible military action by the United States and its allies. More on the Persian Gulf crisis:

'Borrowed time' after midnight

The New York Times News Service and Other Press Services

WASHINGTON — Hopes for peace in the Persian Gulf withered Monday with the United States and Iraq at the brink of a war that could begin this week.

Iraq will be living on "borrowed time" once tonight's midnight EST (11 p.m. CST) United Nations deadline passes for Iraq to withdraw its forces from Kuwait, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Monday. After that, he warned, "military action could occur at any point."

As the five-month-old crisis entered its most critical phase, Iraqi President Saddam Hussein gave no hint he was prepared to begin pulling out troops. It was already too late for Iraq to satisfy the resolution's call for a total withdrawal by the deadline, but President Bush has said he would not attack if a massive pullback were under way.

Bush signed the resolution approved by Congress authorizing force against Iraq, saying it sends "the clearest possible message to Saddam Hussein that he must withdraw from Kuwait without condition or delay." All visible signs pointed to an early attack by the United States and its allies if Hussein does not pull his troops back in time.

"I don't see any reason to have real hope," UN Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar said as he announced the failure of his peace mission to Baghdad.

Bush conferred late Monday afternoon with congressional leaders, who emerged from the White House in a somber mood.

"I think we're at the end of the line," said Sen. Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.).

Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole (R-Kan.) said the President had said "there's been absolutely no ray of hope coming from Saddam Hussein."

War would tighten airport security here

By Deborah White

Passengers leaving Memphis International Airport can expect extremely tight security if war breaks out in the Middle East, airport officials said Monday.

That means passengers would not be able to catch flights at the last minute, but would need to arrive an hour beforehand. Only airline passengers with tickets for flights that day would be allowed beyond security checkpoints, and unattended vehicles in front of the terminal building would be towed away immediately.

"Because known terrorist organizations sympathetic to Iraq have threatened terrorist attacks around the world, all airports served by commercial airlines will implement similar precautions," Memphis airport officials said in a statement Monday. The Federal Aviation Administration will order these precautions throughout the country if needed.

The moves came as two U.S. airlines, Pan Am and Trans World, suspended service to some cities in Europe and the Middle East due to fear of terrorist attacks. Between 1985 and 1989, three jumbo jets were destroyed by terrorist bombs cost-

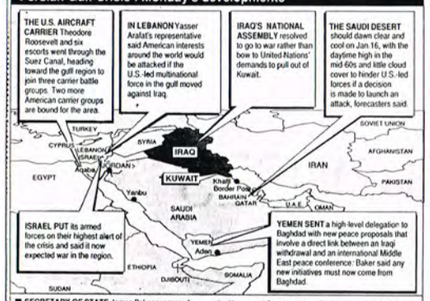
Persian Gulf Crisis : Monday's developments



THE U.S. AIRCRAFT CARRIER Theodore Roosevelt and six escorts went through the Suez Canal, heading toward the gulf region to join three carrier battle groups. Two more American carrier groups are bound for the area.

IN LEBANON Yasser Arafat's representative said American interests around the world would be attacked if the U.S.-led multinational force in the gulf moved against Iraq.

IRAQ'S NATIONAL ASSEMBLY resolved to go to war rather than bow to United Nations' demands to pull out of Kuwait.

THE SAUDI DESERT should dawn clear and cool on Jan.16, with the daytime high in the mid-60s and little cloud cover to hinder U.S.-led forces if a decision is made to launch an attack, forecasters said.

ISRAEL PUT its armed forces on their highest alert of the crisis and said it now expected war in the region.

YEMEN SENT a high-level delegation to Baghdad with new peace proposals that involve a direct link between an Iraqi withdrawal and an international Middle East peace conference. Baker said any new initiatives must now come from Baghdad.

■ SECRETARY OF STATE James Baker expressed disappointment at the failure of the latest UN peace mission and said it was up to Baghdad to avert war. President Bush conferred with congressional leaders.

■ THE WHITE HOUSE said it welcomes last-minute peace initiatives, but warned that military action "could occur at any point" after the deadline (11 p.m. CST) for Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait.

■ UN SECRETARY-GENERAL Javier Perez de Cuellar said he lost hope for peace in the gulf after talks with Saddam Hussein. "Unfortunately, I don't see any more reasons to be optimistic. I don't see any reason to have real hope," the secretary-general said after meeting with President Francois Mitterand in Paris.

■ IRAQI AMBASSADOR Mohamed Al-Mashat prepared to leave the United States. Joseph Wilson, the ranking U.S. diplomat in Iraq, left Baghdad Saturday.

■ TURKEY said the U.S. Air Force would double its contingent there to 96 planes to help defend the only NATO member on Iraq's border.

■ THE ISRAELI SUPREME COURT ordered Israel to begin distributing gas masks to Palestinians in case Hussein attacks Israel with chemical warheads.

■ ABOUT THREE-FOURTHS of Americans approve the House and Senate votes authorizing war against Iraq and more than half favor an attack within a month after today's UN deadline for withdrawal from Kuwait, according to an ABC News-Washington Post poll.

■ THE UNITED STATES has deployed in the gulf two prototype electronic surveillance planes that were not scheduled for actual military use for at least three years, officials said. The JSTARS aircraft — Boeing 707s equipped with advanced radar systems — will be used to track the movement of Iraqi ground forces in case of war.

■ JAPAN raised its financial ante in the gulf crisis, pledging $38 million toward a new UN refugee relief program.

■ THE AMERICAN-ARAB Anti-Discrimination Committee protested to the FBI that agents are harassing them because of their background and said they are being made a suspect class.

■ ACROSS THE WORLD, prayers and anti-war protests grew more passionate. In the nations that line the gulf, residents stocked up on provisions and sealed windows and doors to protect against poison gas attacks. Some people sought gas masks, others hunted for a flight out.

■ GERMAN CHANCELLOR HELMUT KOHL urged Iraq to make a last-minute change and avoid a war he said would be one of the worst conflicts since World War II.

■ EUROPEAN COMMUNITY foreign ministers decided against launching a new peace initiative and sending envoys to Baghdad.

U.S. forces await orders as 11th-hour talks fail

From Our Press Services

Iraq ignored the UN's Tuesday midnight deadline to leave Kuwait and the world prepared for the fateful consequences of President Saddam Hussein's defiant refusal.

Barring an attack by Iraq, the start of a Persian Gulf war now lies in the hands of President George Bush, but officials gave no indication whether or when Bush would order the nation to war.

Diplomats had frantically sought an 11th-hour solution to the crisis. But the most promising initiative, a proposal by France, was pronounced dead late Tuesday when Prime Minister Michel Rocard said Iraq had shown no interest, and the time to use force "has, alas, arrived."

As the deadline passed, some 680,000 troops from 28 nations were braced for combat against 545,000 Iraqi soldiers.

The Pentagon said it was "ready to execute any order we receive from the President," and the White House said military action was likely "sooner rather than later."

The Pentagon said the U.S. ground, air and naval force in the Persian Gulf had grown by 45,000 to 415,000 since last week. It said that, far from showing any sign of withdrawing, Iraq was reinforcing troops on the border between Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

Iraq declared a "furnace of hell" awaits anyone trying to dislodge its troops from Kuwait. What Iraq faced was thousands of combat aircraft, scores of warships and some of the world's most sophisticated weapons. Iraqi state TV said Hussein visited the front in occupied Kuwait on Tuesday.

Iraq's U.S. ambassador, Mohamed Sadiq Al-Mashat, left Washington Tuesday night on his way to London and then Baghdad. Four other Iraqi diplomats will remain at the embassy.

Spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Bush had made no decision on ordering U.S. troops into combat — as both the United Nations Security Council and Congress have authorized — but he left no doubt Bush was ready to do so to end Hussein's five-month occupation of Kuwait.

"I would say that the President is at peace with himself, ready to make the tough decisions ahead when necessary," he said.

Describing Bush as "reflective and resolute," Fitzwater added: "he has confidence in the correctness of our course and in the strength of our coalition."

Fitzwater said Bush would not

U.S. plans attack, then pause to let Iraq give up

Los Angeles Times and The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — U.S. military commanders have built into their battle plan a "strategic pause" following initial intensive bombardment to give Iraq a final chance to leave Kuwait.

U.S. officials have indicated that a Persian Gulf war would be pursued in phases: first, an air attack to destroy Iraqi air defenses and missiles, then the bombing of Iraqi troop emplacements and finally an onslaught of ground and amphibious troops to push the Iraqi army out of Kuwait.

But the phases' timing is a closely held secret, and officials have studiously avoided giving any hint that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein would be allowed to withdraw his army intact once war begins.

The strategic pause plan, relayed to congressmen in briefings before last week's historic vote on using force, is designed to shorten the war and minimize casualties on both sides, sources said.

The strategic pause concept also addresses a question of increasing concern to U.S. policymakers: Should Iraq's military be utterly destroyed, or should Baghdad be allowed to retain a significant defensive capability to counterbalance Syrian and Iranian forces in a postwar Middle East balance of power?

In addition, the planned bombing halt would afford a chance for demoralized or terrorized Iraqi troops to surrender to al-

Iraqi parliament will follow Hussein into 'holy' conflict

By Patrick E. Tyler
The New York Times News Service

BAGHDAD, Iraq — The Iraqi parliament voted unanimously Monday to follow President Saddam Hussein into combat with the United States in a "showdown" over Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

The vote came at the end of an emotional session interrupted by chanting demonstrations for Hussein and cries for a holy war against the United States and its allies.

As the voting took place, Iraq's official press agency announced that Hussein had ordered the design of Iraq's national flag changed to include the words, "God is great," the rallying cry of Islamic martyrs in time of war.

When the session concluded, the Iraqi authorities called for nationwide rallies to observe what they are calling Challenge Day, to defy the UN Security Council deadline of midnight EST (8 a.m. Wednesday in Iraq and Kuwait) for Iraq to withdraw its troops from Kuwait or face military action.

In a meeting Monday with Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat, Hussein said: "Iraq is determined and has the capability to crush aggression and defeat it."

He reiterated that the question of Israeli-occupied Palestinian territories was "the core of the conflict" between Iraq and other nations. And the press agency said Arafat told Hussein: "Palestine and Iraq stand in one trench to regain Arab rights."

Baghdad's streets spilled over Monday with Iraqi soldiers reporting to their units.

Bus terminals were choked with green army transports as a heightened state of war mobilization was reflected in the capital by greater military traffic.

Guards were posted atop air raid bunkers across from the Ministry of Defense at the downtown Muthanniya Airport and army command helicopters shuttled in and out of the installation during the day.

Baghdad residents continued to stream out of the city to refuges in mountainous northern Iraq and to the Islamic pilgrimage cities of Najaf and Karbala in central Iraq.

Many Iraqis believe those areas to be immune from any bombing campaigns the United States might undertake against military targets.

Echoes of distant war reverberate across city

By Tom Charlier

The effects of a faraway war began to hit home Thursday as office workers and travelers endured heightened security checks while teachers tried to soothe children's apprehensions.

One day into America's military onslaught against Iraq, the war preoccupied much of the city. Virtually everyone — from patrons at a downtown grocery store to a Circuit Court judge in his chambers — kept a close watch on television news throughout the day.

Indications of the war were apparent across the city. The most direct effects for many Memphians came in the form of increased security to head off possible terrorism.

Members of the Jewish community were concerned about loved ones in Israel, which came under missile attack Thursday.

CLASS HISTORY

Time like all things achieves its ultimate goal only through the completion of series of crisis which appear, on the surface, to be obstacles, but when viewed from a different perspective are actually the foundations for tomorrow's achievements. As we approach the end of our final association with Melrose High, it gives us pleasure, mingled with pain, to sit back and draw the mantle of our recollections about us, while we ponder our roles for the future. Melrose has been a vast part of our lives for many years and it is here that we have experienced the greatest moments of our past.

As Freshmen, our role at Melrose was small and seemingly insignificant. We had no large part in the shaping of our place in the Melrose hierarchy but we did select Safondria Bogan as the Freshman Class Queen, and her alternate was Xandra Todd.

As Sophomores, we became more acquainted with our new surroundings. It became visible that our claws possessed the outstanding skills needed to attain the qualities of togetherness necessary for our ventures yet to come. Mechelle Jenkins was selected to represent us as Sophomore Queen. Her alternate was Cassandra Alexander.

As Juniors, we realized that our contribution to the school activities, both in the planning and presentation, would be one of greater proportion than in previous years. Individual and collective responsibilities increased as did our ages and experiences. We accepted our new problems and obligations with unfailing courage. Gerald Nickleberry was elected President of the Junior Class and Eric Tate was elected Vice-President. Tashara Stone as Miss Junior and Jessica Savage was her alternate. The Jr.-Sr. Prom was held in honor of the Class of 1990 at the Peabody. The theme was "Here and Now."

As Seniors, the Class of 1991 is directed by Gerald Nickleberry, President; Eric Tate, Vice-President; Kimberly Rushin, Secretary; Valerie Todd, Assistant Secretary; Janice Brown, Treasurer; Tracy Walker, Assistant Treasurer; Demetria King, Reporter; Xandra Todd, Chaplain; Kendra Williams, Parliamentarian; Christopher McCarroll, Sergeant-At-Arms; Shauun Bradley, Business Manager, and Jeana Stevenson as the Class Historian. The Class of 1991 is moving to take its place among its predecessors in Melrose History.

Homecoming for 1990-1991 was a homecoming to remember. Presiding over the festivities were Miss Melrose, Sherron Wilson, and Mr. Melrose, Leeotha Wicks. Cassandra Alexander was elected our Miss Senior, and she served as a lovely representative for our class. Our Homecoming Queen was Candace Reed. As our time at Melrose passed, we discovered many others among us who were possessed with a variety of talents; we had outstanding athletes, scholars, musicians, actors, and singers. Our class was indeed blessed with a multitude of talented people. Melrose also beat the Hamilton Kitty Cats this year in football. The first time in a long time.

As time for our final goodbyes approached, we felt a glow of anticipation, but we were also touched by a twinge of sadness. Our years at Melrose have taught us many lessons. The virtues of patience, courtesy, humility, ambition, and pride have been deeply imprinted on our memories. It seems we are departing from not only a school, but a home and a family. Melrose has been kind to us in every way. It is our fervent hope that as we say goodbye to Dear Melrose High, we may take some of her virtues with us and by the same token, may some part of us remain indelibly etched upon her memory.

Class Prophecy

It is the year 2001, exactly 10 years after the Seniors of '91 graduated. Today, after leaving my corporate office, I visited Melrose High and thought about what all my classmates were doing with their lives.

In world news, Gerald Nickelberry has just become President of the United States. In his first press conference, he was very excited; he can now ride in the Presidential limousine and sell his Thunderbird.

Cedric Murphy and Kimberly Rushin have just become Mr. and Miss America. They will receive an all-expense paid tour of Orange Mound.

World famous scientist Candace Reed, has just found a cure for AIDS; its major side effect is rapid weight gain. Kendra Williams zoomed from 94 pounds to 327 pounds.

William Porter has replaced M. C. Hammer as the Dancin' Machine. You can't touch that.

Charles Sharp may finally stop flirting. He is in a hospital bed because Jessica Savage tied his legs in a knot.

Willie Davis has just been hired as the new band director at Melrose.

Shauun Bradley has gone into a state of insanity. Now he sits in a corner repeating "chief, chief, chief" all day long.

Clumsy Tova Sherrod is a pilot for Delta Airlines. On her first flight, she accidentally locked the landing gear and hit the airport. She is in court being defended by Terry Lewis who has lost all of his cases. Because of this, Terry traded his Grand Am for Nickelberry's Thunderbird, complete with pullout radio.

Jeaná Stevenson is the first woman in the NBA. Eric Tate plays for the same team. He leads the league in fouls because his teeth keep getting in the way.

Leeotha Wicks was recently voted "Pimp of the Year."

Lethesica Kuykendall and Lashonda Carruth are the wake-up DJ's at K-97. They don't play any records because they talk through the whole show.

Xandra Todd has opened a fashion shop called Today's Woman. Her fashions are for women looking for real men. She sells fake hair, nails, contacts, and body parts.

Allen Chalmers, a millionaire, has just married Seletha Hannah. Allen is being forced into divorce by his former lover, Tashara Stone, while Seletha is on the Angela Craft show with her lawyer, Jackie Bowens, claiming that she will get half of his estate.

Safondria Bogan is the editor of Jet magazine. Tim Foster appears in the next issue posing as Beauty of the Week.

Is this really the destiny of our Golden Wildcats, or does the future hold something completely different? All I can say is that the future will be bright and exciting for the class of 1991.

TO A NEGRO BOY GRADUATING

By EUGENE T. MALSKA

Be wary, lad, the road up which you go
Is long and steeper than you dare to think
And since you leave in darkness, lad, be slow
Test every spring before you bend to drink;
Learn now the rose may hide a hundred scars,
The welcome breeze may herald storm ahead,
And though your eyes would trace the course of the stars
Or gaze on gray horizons growing red,
Let caution rule your step that you may see
The gaping pit, the waiting bog, the wall
Of white which you must scale, Go carefully
And hopefully; but if somewhere you sink or fall,
Remember where you walked and smoothed the way
That those who follow may discover the day.

YEARBOOK"
1990-91

Xandra, years have passed since you've been this small. Now you have grown to be a young lady. I wish you happiness and success in all your endeavors. As time passes you by, make sure you don't wait a long time to fulfill the goals you have in mind because time is very precious. Your family and friends will support you in everything you want to achieve, because there is a lot of love within our hearts for you. Stay sweet and kind as you are and may God bless you.

A very special thanks to everyone who made it possible for my daughter to be Miss Yearbook "1990."

Congratulations on all your achievements! You have certainly made us proud. Remember, as you venture out into the world that patience is a virtue, it is better to give than to receive, do unto others as you would have them do unto you, no man is an island, and learning to love yourself . . . is the greatest love of all.

"THE LATE SHERIFF OSBORNE BELL" OF HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS. (MARSHALL COUNTY)

1935-1986
DEATH: (MAY 7, 1986)

IN LOVING MEMORY OF SHERIFF OSBORNE BELL

Dear Son, Brother and Father, you died where manhoods morning almost touches noon and while the shadows still were falling toward the west.

Just in the happiest, sunniest hour of all the voyage, while eager winds are kissing every sail to dash against the unseen rock and in an instant hear the billows roar above the sunken ship. For whether in midsea or among the breakers of the farther shore, a wreck at last must mark the end of each and all. And every life, no matter if it's every hour is rich with love and every moment jewelled with a joy, will at last come a tragedy as sad and deep and dark as can be woven of the warp and woof of mystery and death.

You were brave and tender in every storm of life was oak and rock, and in the sunshine you were vine and flower. You were a friend of all people. You climbed the heights and left all superstitions far below, while on your forehead fell the golden dawning of the grander day.

You loved the beautiful, and was with color, form, and music touched to tears. With loyal heart and with purest hands you faithfully discharged all public trust.

From your voiceless lips there comes no word; but in the night of death hope sees a star, and listening love can hear the rustle of a wing. And when you were dying, mistaking the approach of death for the return of health, whispered these words "I am better now."

Speech cannot contain our love. There was, there is no greater, stronger man than
Our Brother The Sheriff
(VeLivian Bell-Bullard)

He worked so hard to be the best,
He loved his job so much,
He'd give his all and give up rest,
To help the hurting with a gentle touch.

We look to what kind of man he was.
Kind hearted, loving and that drive to succeed.
He'd do for others without a thought, and would
See to their every need.

We must carry on his hopes and dreams,
And you never, ever give up;
You make your mark in life — not for yourself,
But for those to grow up.

The Parker Bell Family
Deeply Missed VeLivian, Doris, Shirley, Zella,
Imodene, Maurice, Monet, Mother and Father.

"THE EDITORS' MESSAGE"

EDITOR

BOGAN

Working on the yearbook, as an editor this year, has taught me many lessons: never put off your work, always be open for new ideas, and continually be aware of the hard work going on around you.

My main objective was to reflect through pictures as many memorable activities, events, and achievements of this school year as possible. I hope it will help you to relive your memories at Melrose High school.

CO-EDITOR

CANDACE

REED

In the past, the Golden Wildcat has been the means of keeping our memories of that year alive. Throughout this year, Mrs. Mary Evans, the yearbook staff, and I have worked many hours to make this book one that you will be proud to have and cherish. Thanks to the many students who participated in the "yearbook sponsored activities" to make this book a success.
